

SETTLEMENT ILLINOIS COAL STRIKE IN PROSPECT

LEECH NAMED STATES
ATTORNEY FOR REST
OF EDWARDS' TERMChas. Andrus Succeeds Eichenberg as Caretaker Co. Bldg.

Attorney "Billy" Leech of Amboy was selected by the county board of supervisors yesterday afternoon to finish the unexpired term of office of State's Attorney Harry Edwards, who has resigned. Supervisor James Buckley of Mayotwn nominated the fortunate candidate. After Chairman Long had declared the nominations closed, Supervisor Buckaloof of Nelson township challenged the chair's right to take such action and placed the name of Attorney John E. Erwin of this city in for nomination. Supervisor Fielding seconded the motion.

The vote was taken by ballot, the chair appointing Supervisors Miller and McCleary as tellers. The vote was cast as follows:

William Leech, Amboy-18.
John E. Erwin, Dixon-3.
W. F. Preston, Pawpaw-1.

Attorney John Erwin notified members of the board previous to the meeting that he was a candidate for the honor. The successful nominee was called upon for a few remarks and assured the board members that he would do his best to carry out the duties of the office of state's attorney of Lee county, and fully realized that his task was not a small one by any means considering the manner in which his predecessors have faithfully served for many years.

Judge-elect Harry Edwards was then called upon for a few remarks and said:

Mr. Edwards' Address.

"Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the board of supervisors of Lee county. In the 18 years I have been connected with your honorable body as state's attorney and assistant in that office, I have gained relationship with the board members which at this time I deeply regret to sever. I have tried to serve you to the best of my ability and in closing my transaction with your body, I trust that we may remain the same warm friends that we have been in the past."

At the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. Edwards addressed the board relative to certain much needed repairs in the court house building. He pointed out the necessity of a judge's chamber in the Lee county court house, which is the only one in the circuit which does not afford such an apartment and suggested that the present room used as a library be converted into a judge's chamber. In his connection he volunteered to use his extensive law library for the use of the judges of the circuit and the members of the Lee County Bar association and requested that the board permit the room to be converted to this use and to allow the flat top desk which has served in the state's attorney's office for several years to be moved into the chamber. The board unanimously voted to grant his request.

At the opening of the session of the board, the resignation of the state's attorney was one of the first matters to be acted upon. The resignation of Mr. Edwards was read by County Clerk Dimick and accepted by the board. A small number of claims against the county were then read and allowed.

Andrus New Caretaker.

A resolution from the building committee was presented and read by the clerk in which Charles Andrus of this city was named to succeed George Eichenberg as caretaker of the court house property at a salary of $140 per month. The new janitor is to pay such other help as he may require out of this amount. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Supervisor I. J. Trostle of China township then presented a resolution which provided that no candidate for the office of state's attorney be considered in naming a successor to this office and that such successor would be required to pledge himself to the board that he would not become a candidate. This resolution was unanimously adopted and the nomination proceeded.

NEW PROSECUTOR GETS CASE AFTER APPOINTMENTCalled to Prosecute
Before Taking Oath
of Office

In less than ten minutes after the board of supervisors had appointed Attorney Leech of Amboy to serve as State's Attorney through the unexpired term of Judge-elect Harry Edwards, the new official, before being sworn into office, was called upon to represent the state in a proceeding in Justice Albert Hanneken's court. Mrs. Rosa Trujillo and her husband, Raymond, with whom she has not been living for about two years, were the participants in an altercation at the home of the latter in one of the cement block houses near the cement plant.

Mrs. Trujillo was said to have gone to the home of her husband to make inquiry as to the presence of another woman. Trujillo, a Mexican, is alleged to have struck her, knocking her down and rendering the woman unconscious. When she regained her senses she hurled a rock at her husband, striking him in the left side of the head with the missile and inflicting a deep gash just below the temple. Deputy Sheriff Phillips was called to the scene and brought the principals into Justice Hanneken's court. Attorney Lloyd Scriven was appointed by the court to represent Trujillo and the new state's attorney was granted a continuance until Saturday morning. Trujillo was held under $150 bonds on a charge of assault and battery and being unable to furnish the amount was sent to the county jail.

BLIMPS MAY SOON BE SAILING OVER DIXON
CARRYING U. S. MAILP. O. Department Has Proposal for Parcel Post Service

It is quite possible that within a few months the most blasé Dixonite who will not even tip up his "bean" to watch an airplane go over will find something else in the air above to cause him to look for a short time at least.

It is announced at Washington that the post office department has before it a proposal to carry parcels post from New York to San Francisco, a representative of a New York firm, which claims to have made a type of blimp capable of carrying fifteen tons and able to travel faster than trains is sponsor for the proposal.

The department, it is announced, has asked for bids for carrying of mail between New York and Frisco, and the air mail bids, which are to be opened Sept. 10 also include the routes from Cleveland to Detroit, Pittsburgh to St. Louis and New York to Atlanta.

If the plan of the postoffice department is adopted and the blimps are used for the carrying of the mail across the continent, the route of the balloons would probably follow that of the airplanes and the huge sausage would float over Dixon on their way back and forth.

The mail airplanes are now so common flitting back and forth the people hardly notice them unless they come down as one did at Nelson some days ago.

The air mail system is developing rapidly but as yet only the long hauls are made by airplane.

VETERINARIANS

WITH I. A. ASSN.Will Furnish Certificates in Treating Hog Cholera

Hog raisers of Lee county will be interested in definite action taken at the summer meeting of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical association at Champaign, July 8 and 9, where the following proposition with reference to the immunization of hogs against cholera was proposed:

The veterinarians shall, when requested, state the particular kind and brand of serum and virus used and the serial and license number of each and their net cost to him. This statement may be rendered on a uniform blank agreed upon by a joint committee of the Illinois State Veterinary Medical Association at an early date. Members from this county are: H. C. Barth, Amboy; Dr. Fred B. Jones, Dixon; Dr. E. F. Logner, Paw Paw; Dr. E. B. McClure, Ashton; Dr. L. B. Swingley, Dixon; Dr. Ole L. Tesdal, Lee.

The Livestock Marketing Committee of the Illinois Agricultural association, at a meeting at Bloomington, July 12, agreed to recommend to the executive committee of the I. A. A. the adoption of the proposition agreed to by the veterinary association.

H. W. Mumford, director of the livestock marketing department of the I. A. A., believes that this arrangement will insure a better understanding between the farmer and the veterinarian, inspire greater confidence between them and at the same time insure the breeder against the occasional veterinarian who is inclined to overcharge for both serum and professional services.

Heibenthal

When the county board of supervisors reconvened in adjourned session yesterday afternoon, the first matter to receive their attention was the reading and adoption of a resolution for the recently deceased member, Charles Heibenthal of Ashton, County Clerk. Fred G. Dimick read the resolution which was as follows: Whereas recently the blight of death has cast its shadow over this board and removed from our midst one of the most useful members of the County Board of this County, one who by his fidelity to public trust, clean private life, and upright character endeared himself to all who knew him, and won the respect of the people of this county, who was ever actuated by a desire to do right, live a proper life and render a faithful public service and whose passing causes grief and sorrow to every member of this board;

Be it resolved by the Lee County Board of Supervisors that in the death of Supervisor Charles Heibenthal this board has lost one of its most useful members, and the county of Lee one of its best citizens and that we shall ever hold his memory in grateful respect and remember fondly his service with us.

Be it resolved that a copy of this resolution be spread upon our record and that a copy be forwarded to the family of Supervisor Charles Heibenthal.

New York, July 29.—Three all-metal monoplanes, carrying the first transcontinental mail, left the flying field at Central Park, Long Island, at 10:08 o'clock today for San Francisco.

UNKNOWN WOMAN IS SOUGHT; PETTIBONE
MURDER CASE ENDINGMystery Surrounds Woman Who Hangs Around County JailBY LORRY A. JACOBS,
N. E. A. Staff Correspondent.

Manchester, Vt., July 28.—Two distinct elements of mystery surround the case of Byron Pettibone, alleged wife murderer. One traces back to the time before Pettibone's wife died, suddenly and mysteriously. The other has turned up since the alleged murderer has been confined in a cell.

FIRST—What was the secret of the strange infatuation which Pettibone had for Nurse Irene Gullow, a woman few people would consider attractive.

SECOND—Who is the black veiled woman who has been hovering around the jail where Pettibone is held.

Marriage a Secret.

All New England became interested in the case when the history of Pettibone's love affair with his wife seeped out. Several years ago, when he was 21, Pettibone wooed and won Mrs. Bond, who was 40, and owner of a little store in Bennington, where Pettibone worked. The marriage was kept a secret until townfolk began to talk about the couple's associations.

The breath of scandal died down, but townfolk often referred to the Pettibones as "that queer couple—she's old enough to be his mother."

The couple finally sold their store and Pettibone became an apprentice in an undertaking establishment while his wife went to work in a mill. Then Mrs. Pettibone died—suddenly. An autopsy was held and strychnine was found. Police say Pettibone confessed he had put it in a dose of salts his wife had taken.

He explained, in this confession, according to police, how he gave his wife the poisoned salts and kissed her good night.

She'll Stick by Him.

And then came the disclosure of Pettibone's relation with Irene Gullow. She has visited him repeatedly in his cell. He asks about her continually. She has written him love letters and said in his cell, "Byron, I love you better than ever. I'll stick with you to the end."

Neighbors say that Pettibone often took Miss Gullow riding on the front seat of the hearse he drove.

And now, with the alleged murderer behind bars, a woman has paid nightly visits to the place outside of Pettibone's cell. She has not appeared at the trial. Attorneys say they do not know her. And villagers declare she doesn't belong there.

Mystery Woman.

Is she a witness, hiding her identity? Or perhaps a relative, unable to keep away from the scene where one of "her own" is in danger?

And while Pettibone's trial goes on, villagers are musing: "Why did Nurse Gullow attract him—and is there another love affair that the woman in the black veil could explain?"

Spent Three Lonely
Years in Woods to Evade Army Service

Portland, Ore., July 29.—Three years of wandering in the all but deserted mountains of southern Oregon in efforts to escape a charge of evading the selective draft were ended today with Alfred Fattig, 27 year old farmer in jail here. He surrendered, he said because of loneliness which became unbearable.

The meat of wild animals and berries had been his food he said.

With his brother Charles he fled to the mountains in 1917 because of conscientious scruples against war, he declared, but last fall his brother decided to return to civilization. He has not been apprehended.

The newspapers are advocating the immediate construction of trenches and fortifications for the defense of Warsaw before the Bolshevik advance closely.

The Bolshevik drive from the northeast along the Bialystok railroad and the thrust in Galicia in the direction of Lemberg are developing rapidly despite Polish resistance on both wings. In Galicia the fighting has reached a point 70 kilometers east of Lemberg, with the Bolsheviks bearing down upon the city from three directions.

Mr. Penna estimated Indiana coal production at about 35 per cent below normal.

He stated that the meeting was composed of purely Indiana operators, that they had gathered to consider all phases of the situation. Reports that the operators were going to meet the men he declared inaccurate.

FARRINGTON HOPES FOR AGREEMENT IN TWO OR THREE DAYSOperators' Scale Committee to Meet in Chicago
Friday

By Associated Press Leased Wire

St. Louis, July 29.—Thomas T. Brewster, chairman of the Coal Operators' Scale committee today called a meeting of operators in the central competitive field to consider the coal situation as a result of the miners' strike. The meeting will be tomorrow morning in Chicago.

The operators at the meeting Mr. Brewster explained will consider the advisability of conferring with officials of the United Mine Workers of America on the strike situation, as suggested by John L. Lewis, president of the miners' union.

Replies received from operators in the central field to Mr. Lewis request for the joint conference have not been sufficient to indicate whether the majority of the mine owners favor such a meeting, Mr. Brewster added.

FARRINGTON HOPEFUL

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Springfield, Ill., July 29.—Informal conferences with executive board members from each of the fourteen mining districts in the state, were followed this morning by announcement of President Frank Farrington that the situation in the striking Illinois coal fields is very promising, holding prospect of a settlement to the satisfaction of the miners' demands within the next two days.

Vice President Harry Fishwick made an equally optimistic announcement. Besides this result of the reports of the executive board the situation, the two officers said, remains about the same, with coal production if anything, by the strike of additional Peoria district miners.

Meanwhile this city, in the heart of one of the richest coal fields prepared for lightless streets tonight. Commissioner Willis J. Spaulding of the department of public works said the lights would not be turned on. As a further retrenchment in the use of coal, he indicated that tomorrow rigid restrictions on the use of water may be imposed. "We may shut off the water supply of all factories and the railroads," he said, "and furnish water for domestic use only. Each gallon of water pumped brings us so much nearer the bottom of our coal pile. We are adding a little to our supply, but are at the mercy of those who can supply us, in the matter of price."

Chicago, July 29.—Coal in dealers' yards in Chicago today is a sixth to a seventh of the normal supply, an official of the largest coal company here, said today. He declared that if nothing is done to improve the constantly diminishing receipts Chicago would be "going on a vacation" next week.

Today's Market Report

All Grains Higher In Chicago Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, July 29.—All grain tended upward in price today influenced largely by a prediction that dry weather might injure the corn crop. In the wheat pit there was no evidence of any renewal of liquidation and the market responded to scattering buying orders. Opening prices for wheat were 1 1/4c to 2 1/4c higher, with December 2.36 to 2.37 and March 2.39 1/4, but most of the advance was soon lost.

Corn traders gave special attention to reports that some corn in Illinois was already damaged by lack of rain and that moisture must come in the next few days or the yield would be much reduced. Official figures showed that since June 1 the rainfall in Illinois had been less than a fourth of normal. After opening 5/8c to 4c higher, including September at 1.43 1/4 to 1.44 1/4 and December 1.28 1/4 to 1.29 the market scored some additional upturns.

Oats sympathized with corn, starting 5/8c to 2 1/4c higher, September 7 1/4c to 7 1/2c and then continuing to harden. Higher quotations on hogs and grain lifted quotations.

WOULD EXTEND WORK OF REHABILITATION TO INDUSTRIAL LIFE

Officer of Federal Organization Sees Great Future in Work

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, July 29.—The lessons learned by the United States in its work of rehabilitation of soldier and sailor veterans of the war, if applied to the problems of the industrial cripple would mean not only the return to independence of these injured workers but an actual increase in the wealth of the nation of $2,500,000,000 a year, according to Ralph T. Fisher, director vocational officer of the Federal Board for Vocational Education in the New York District in an address here today before the New York Rotary Club.

"In point of dollars," said Mr. Fisher, "retraining the industrially crippled men means an increased productive value to the nation of amounts heretofore little understood. I believe we are easily within conservative estimates in saying that any seriously disabled man who can be vocationally rehabilitated will have his earning capacity increased by a total of at least $12,500 for the remaining period of his life and that his increased productive value to the nation will easily reach $50,000."

"The Federal Board for Vocational Education is just now gathering data on the subject, but if, for immediate estimates, we assume that not more than one-fifth of the permanently disabled require retraining, we would have 50,000 men a year to be trained. It is a simple matter of computation to see that if each retrained man returns $50,000 in the remainder of his life the increment according to the wealth of the nation would amount to two and one-half billion dollars. This enormous figure, it must be remembered, is the estimated result of training those persons crippled in industry in one year."

Many Are Disabled. Mr. Fisher said it was estimated by the board that four or five times as many persons are disabled in industry in one year as were disabled in the American Expeditionary Forces during the period of the war. He said that at least 250,000 persons are permanently disabled in the United States each year through industrial accidents.

The problem, said Mr. Fisher, will always be largely a state problem. "The state," he said, "which is responsible for the most industrial crippling is likewise reaping corresponding profits from the industries in that state which are responsible for those cripples. Consequently, the funds for industrial rehabilitation should come chiefly from sources of state taxation, assuming that the state will, in turn, derive taxes for that purpose from the profits of those industries which are responsible for the accidents."

Mr. Fisher praised the act of congress in passing almost without reduction the ninety million dollar appropriation for the rehabilitation of war veterans. This action, he said, made it possible to prove beyond a doubt the feasibility of rehabilitation of cripples.

"New York state is to be congratulated," Mr. Fisher asserted, "on having recently passed a law calculated to accept the provisions of the Federal act recently approved, which does not provide for the support of the industrially disabled who are undergoing vocational training but purposes to standardize, supervise and encourage industrial rehabilitation in the various states. The New York law designates a state advisory committee for the rehabilitation of handicapped persons which will co-operate with other state agencies concerned. For immediate encouragement congress has appropriated $3,750,000 to be allotted to the states, covering a period of the next four years, on condition that the states meet this appropriation dollar for dollar."

"New York has done the characteristic thing in anticipation of the Federal act, so that the simple acceptance by the governor of the state will complete the formalities."

"Whether this is viewed as a war recuperative measure or as an industrial recuperative measure," said Mr. Fisher, "it cannot help but appeal to right-minded citizens, because it is calculated not only to solve an economic problem, but to solve at the same time one of the great social problems of democracy—a contented citizenry."

WONDER WHY

Geniuses are men who wonder why.
'Twas a falling apple taught Newton
the way God holds the universe together. A twisted paper windmill, spinning in the steam jet of a tea kettle, showed a way to a new power-world to the boy Watt.

James Bradley, barely 26 years old, held school for the wisest astronomers and taught them a new and better way to measure star distances. That was because he saw a weathercock and tried to understand why it appeared to point to different quarters as he rowed past it on the Thames.

You've heard the water growl and rough as it flows in a whirlpool from your bathtub in the morning. You never took the trouble to look at this tiny maelstrom. Hiram Maxim did and noticed that with the vent side open in the bottom of the tub, the water flowed slowly. Within three days he had solved a problem that had puzzled since the first bullet left the muzzle of the flintlock and had invented the Maxim gun silencer.

Edison wondered why a sharp point fixed to the back of a square of thin iron pricked his finger when he talked against the other surface. His wonderings gave birth to the phonograph.
And it's a reasonably safe wager that you couldn't write an intelligent essay on the workings of the phonograph, on the fall of dew or the phases of the moon today.

Open your eyes and wonder why.

HUMOR

From such an authority as Ellis Parker Butler, who some years ago made the nation laugh over the humorous absurdity, "Pigs is Pigs," one is informed that there are just ten kinds of humor. And he goes on to tell about it. Ellis says one can style, which predominates with the get just as big a laugh by poking the baby in the ribs as he can by composing the finest line in the world. Says he:

"The first method of humor is a breezy exaggeration, the Mark Twain Yankees.

"The second is founded on a person's real or feigned ignorance. Almost all child humor is founded upon the child's ignorance of something we fully understand.

"Third, there is the naive mode which Barrie so generously employs in his Scotch stories.

"Fourth, there is the ridiculous, calling direct attention to something we consider impossible with ourselves—the fat man in a silk hat on a slippery pavement, for instance.

"Fifth, the repetition of something more or less unexpected like "Pigs is Pigs."

"Sixth, the sudden let down from the extremely serious to the extremely frivolous.

"Seventh, the use of extreme analogy, mostly used by cartoonists.

"Eighth, the more or less disguised practical joke practiced principally in stage comedies, such as the custard pie in the face.

"Ninth, the gradual expansion of anything that has ridiculous possibilities.

"And lastly, untimeliness, something that has no particular humor in itself, happening at an opportune time. For example, things happening at a funeral, wedding or any serious [gathering]."

Bring on any brands of humor you [possess]! Let's chuckle.

BRINGING UP FATHER.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

Trouble for Mr. Tingaling.
Mr. Tingaling, the fairy landlord of the Land-Of-Bear-Knows-Where, peeped this way and that way, and looked carefully all around to see if anyone were coming, for he was anxious not to be seen, having fallen Maple-Tree Flats with nothing on but Oliver's nightgown which he had borrowed.

"I'll just slip over and ask Munchie Mouse to help me up in his dumb-waiter," thought Tingaling, tiptoeing cautiously over the soft moss.

feels like hopping." That was Miss Grasshopper.

Then another voice came through the shrubbery. "I was so afraid it would rain today. When it does, you know, I just can't do a thing with my hair." That was no other than Miss Fuzzy-Worm talking.

"Here's a lovely place!" exclaimed a fourth voice. "This blueberry grove is one of my favorite spots. I usually come here to chirp my evening song." Tingaling recognized Miss Cricket.

"My Lands!" exclaimed he. "This is no place for me. It's the Woodland Sewing Society having a picnic. I'll have to sneak off the other way and get ask to my friends, Nancy and Nick, as fast as I can; also get my clothes which Oliver Oriole is mend- ing."

But when he tried that way there were more voices coming. The picnic had gathered all around him.

Leonard P. Ayres, director of the division of education of the Russell Sage Foundation.

Ayres wanted to find what were the words most frequently used in ordinary correspondence, and which were the hardest to spell. He figured that it was much better for pupils to know how to spell words for ordinary use than to spend so much time in drilling on catch words, or words used once a year.

So Ayres collected letters from different people, numbering about 100-000 words. He made a list of 1000 of the most common ones.

Ayres took his thousand words and submitted them to 1,400,000 spellings by 70,000 children in 84 cities. He found the hardest words to spell.

Yes, the hardest. It was "Judgment."

And that was closely followed by
"recommend," and "allege," with "discision" and "principle" as runners-up. "Immediate," "convenient," "receipt," "preliminary," "disappoint,"
"especially," "annual," and "committee" were about equal "stumpers" to the children, with "me" and "do" the easiest of all.

If one can spell the 1000 words that Colonel Ayres has sifted out of the word avalanche he looked into, he is pretty safe as to his spelling as an average American correspondent—much safer than being able to spell the words provided by the tests of the National Education Association.

Trick words for trial; tried words for performance!

The evils that wait do live after them; the good is oft interred in the archives of the State Department.

VALUE OF RECREATION.
The fundamental value of recreation is the development of men and women who are able to take their places in society and fulfill the requirements which society demands of them. It gives increasing physical strength, stronger moral character, a larger variety of interests and accomplishments and greater industrial efficiency. Games teach the subordination of the individual to the common good and develop the spirit of cooperation. Learning to keep the rules of the game trains the citizens in obeying laws.

I Am Shocked by News That Jim Has Been Married

Bob broke into my room before breakfast one morning with a telegram in his hand.

"News from the front Jane. Jim, Jr., has gone and done it this time!"
he explained. His expression frightened me.

"Worse than that! I say Jane, will you let me swear?" Bob asked as he smothered the yellow paper out for me to read.

"Kindly swear for both of us!" I said and I collapsed among the pillows for a good cry.

Jim, Jr., my beloved brother-in-law
my own particular "loot" had gone and done it, indeed! He had married!
Without a word of warning to his family he had picked out a girl nobody knew and had wedded her!

"Of course a man has a right to do it that way, but by gosh—"

"He might have had his choice of the debutantes of half a dozen cities!"
I wailed. "And he picked out a business girl who will run him the rest of his days!"

"What do you know about her?"
demanded my husband.

"Jim told me a little when he came from Mexico with us," I sobbed. "I suppose she's all right. But—but I can't bear to give Jim up." I sobbed.

"We were always such chums. Now we can't be any more!"

"Tell me all you know about her."
"He met her in a dance hall, the public park kind. But she's a real nice girl. Jim says so!" I murmured.

"Of course Jim says so!" snapped Bob. "Then why didn't he marry her in a nice way—with his mother

at the ceremony?"

"She's—she's a working girl. Somebody's private secretary."

"Glad she's good for something," Bob exclaimed. "Mother will approve of that. I suppose she's a beauty—one of the rouged sort with teeth and a set smile?"

"Not that. I saw her picture. Men wouldn't call her a peach."

"In heaven's name why did Jim marry her?"

"She has charm, Jim said so. And she supports her mother."

"She won't have to do that now
she has hooked a Lorimer," stormed Bob.

"Jim didn't intend to marry her.
He said so when he was home. He said he was never going to marry anybody. She never was, either.
On account of her mother. He just kept going to see her because she wasn't like other girls. That was so—safe. For both of them you see."

"I see," growled Bob.

"When he met her at the dance hall where the boys go sometimes he told her that he had never spoken to a girl before without an introduction and she said she never had let a man dance with her before without being introduced. That—that's why they became friends. Jim said so."

I concluded.

"Bunk!" commented my irate husband. "But we'll have to stand by Jim, now he's in for it. He and his bride will be here in three days. This other wire says that Daddy and Chrys will arrive in three days. A nice family reunion I say. And Jim tells me I've got to break the news to Mother."

Mother wasn't quite so upset as Bob expected her to be. She seemed to grasp the situation better than either Bob or I.

"I'm sorry they didn't tell us what they planned," was her soft comment, but I noticed that the hand which held the telegram shook so that she clutched the arm of her chair to stop its trembling. "I suppose they had some good reason. The poor little girl will have a difficult hour when she faces Jim's family. There are so many of us. Help me to make it easy for her Bob—Jane!"

Of course we promised.

"If Jim wants her, the rest of us
do. That's settled," Mother concluded.

Would it be hard to be nice to her.
I wondered? What kind of a girl would thrust herself into a family in such an informal and unexpected fash?

Was she merely unsophisticated?
Or had she snatched my adorable brother-in-law for the sake of his money and hurried on the wedding for fear she might lose him if she delayed?

The move to abolish full dress suits is sensible. Why should one wear a full dress suit when he can't get full?

Old Huerta had his little faults, but he didn't pull the eagle's tail to feather his cap.

RUSSIAN PEASANTS FIND BOLSHEVISTS WORSE THAN CZARS

Duckworth Writes of In- side Stories of Rus- sian Life

Correspondent J. Herbert Duckworth entered Soviet Russia without a permit and traveled INDEPENDENTLY all over the land of the Bolsheviks—NOT ON A LENIN TOUR. Lenin finally jailed him and deported him to Estonia—but he had his facts and he is now writing the TRUTH about RUSSIA TODAY for readers of the Evening Telegraph. Watch for more of Duckworth's articles.

BY J. H. DUCKWORTH
N. E. A. Staff Correspondent
Reval, Estonia, July 29.—Russian farmhouses are intensely picturesque from the outside—inside they are usually indescribably filthy. But you can't help but like the Russian moujik. He is intensely hospitable, and has a great love for the soil.

The Russian peasant-farmer never lives miles away from a neighbor as he so often does in America. He has an ancient communal life. His farm is always one of a group. A small village is called a Derevnya. If it has a church it is a selo.

Pigs in the House
I went into a small farmhouse near Tosno. It housed a man, his wife and four children. The mother was spinning flax on an old-fashioned wheel. The oldest girl was weaving a coarse kind of linen. The other children were asleep atop the big oven. Chickens and pigs were foraging under the table for crumbs.

Had the farmer something for me to eat? Only milk. His family were living on one-eighth of a pound of bread apiece a day. And one-eighth of a pound of black bread makes only a small slice. The day before my visit, two women from this Derevnya set out to trudge sixty miles to Petrograd in search of food. The country going to the town for bread!

OPPOSED TO SOVIET RULE
This man's farm was going to waste. He could not till it because he had exchanged his horse for a cow.

Then a bearded neighbor entered. We questioned him. What did he think of Bolshevism?

"We live terrible times under Czar Nicholas," he said, "but we are worse off now. We used to get at least bread. Now we starve. If we could only keep our land some of us would like to see the czar back."

Eighty per cent of Russia's population are peasants, or small landowners. This majority is opposed to Soviet rule.

ROBBED OF FOOD
A peasant's life under the czar was a very bitter one. With his fields belonging to large landowners he paid his rent in produce, and usually saved all winter. He now owns his own land, paying but a small rent to the Soviet government. But his condition, at any rate in the provinces of Pskov, Novgorod, Moscow, Tver, and Petrograd, has become worse under Bolshevism. He now starves all the year around.

Bolsheviks from the towns come and rob him of his foodstuffs and give him nothing worth while in return. There is no better indication that famine really exists in Russia than the fact that I have had, between Moscow and Petrograd, scores of peasants refuse to sell me butter, eggs and milk.

Bread was what they wanted. Rye bread has always formed the staple food of the Russians. These country folk would exchange their dairy produce for bread, but not for Soviet rubles. There was nothing they could buy with money.

Away from the railroads the peasants seemed a little better off. In food. At last they always found milk and a little kasha, (porridge) for me, and twice offered me bread.

The crop reports for this year, published in Pravda are not good. The following are typical samples of the reports for June:

From Nijni-Novgorod—In Balachin ski district, below average; Pavlovsk, injured by drought; Arsamass, medium unsown land for winter corn 5 per cent; for spring corn 8 per cent; Lookaynoff below average; Vasilursk, injured by drought and caterpillars.

FUTURE LOOKS BAD
With a poor harvest and with out outside help, it is impossible to conceive to what depths of suffering

A NEW WAY TO SHAVE

Usual Irritations Eliminated

Barbasol Softens the Beard and Heals As it Shaves
Chemistry has another feather in its cap.

Now it makes possible the "smartless" shave.
The old scraping and pulling method of our grandfathers is replaced by an easy, pleasant method that even does away with the unsanitary shaving brush and the mussy mug. Men who have tried this modern shaving preparation proclaim it the greatest discovery since shaving was invented. A remarkable ointment that heals the face and keeps it in the best condition at all times. It easily softens the toughest beard, yet will not harm the most delicate skin.

All druggists recommend Barbasol and most of them sell it.
If your druggist hasn't Barbasol, it will be mailed to you on receipt of price (35 cents) and druggist's name. Made only by the Nape Corporation, Indianapolis, Ind.

ALL JAPAN ASKING IF MIKADO IS DEAD MANY THINK HIM SO

But Official Announcement Has Not Been Made by Govt.

BY JACK MASON
Manager, Far Eastern Bureau, N. E. A.

Tokio, Japan.—Japan is one country where you can pretend to cheat death—if you belong to the royal family.

The mikado is dead or he isn't dead. Take your choice. Nobody knows the truth—that is, nobody outside the inner circle of high officials and the equally tight-lipped retainers at the palace.

Many Japanese and many foreigners still believe the report, officially denied, that the mikado died a few weeks ago.

Carried From Tarin
The mikado came home a few weeks ago from one of his country places. A man in whom I have every confidence was at the railway station in Tokio when the royal train pulled in.

"I was about 50 feet from the emperor," he said. "There was a court chamberlain on either side of him, their arms linked in his. They literally lifted him the short distance to his carriage. The emperor's feet dragged on the ground, neither moving nor being used in his support. His head hung forward. His face was the color of death. I believe he was dead at that time."

There is plenty of precedent in Japan for concealing deaths in the royal family. Royalty, over here, dies only when the time is propitious for public announcement. Also royalty dies only in the royal palace in Tokio.

"Official" Death
If actual death happens elsewhere the body is brought home with all the usual forms and ceremonies accorded the personage when alive. When everything is ready the death is announced, as having occurred in the palace, at the time of the announcement.

Weeks may elapse between actual death and official death. Perhaps months.

If the emperor is dead, or when he dies, the announcement may be long withheld, because of unsettled industrial and political conditions.

Says Unassimilable Races Must Not be Permitted Entrance

By Associated Press Licensed Wire

Louisville, Ky., July 29.—Congressman King Swepe of Kentucky, chairman of the house sub-committee which recently investigated Japanese immigration to Pacific coast states, declared in a statement today that this country has "reached a point where he should not permit any unassimilable race to fill up our Pacific states or any other states."

He said the "privilege of entry of any and all immigrants should be predicated upon their ability and desire to become real, loyal, patriotic Americans."

The sub-committee will report the house committee when congress assembles in December. Mr. Swepe declined to say what recommendation will be made.

"When we realize that about 100,000 of the approximately 150,000 Japanese in this country live in California," said Mr. Swepe, we can readily see why the Californians view with great alarm a continued Japanese immigration.

"The Californians allege," Mr. Swepe said, "that the gentlemen's agreement" is being violated and that thousands of Japanese immigrants are entering this country surreptitiously every year by way of the Mexican border."

Black's barber shop and the Beardsley opera house. The loss is estimated at $6,000 but the property was well insured.

Motorman Not Losing Any Time

"I don't think anyone ever suffered more from stomach trouble and bloating than I have. I had to lay off my run more than half the time and could get no help from prescriptions or medicine. One of my friends advised using Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I found to be the greatest remedy ever put on the earth. I have not lost a day since taking it. It is worth its weight in gold." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and always the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

TWO MILLION PAIRS OF SHOES ON SALE AT CHICAGO COLISEUM

Retailer Rents Big Hall to Sell Shoes $1 to $7 Per Pair

BY EDWARD M. THIERRY, N. E. A. Staff Correspondent.
Chicago, July 29. — The Coliseum, home of circuses and political conventions, which rents for $1,000 a day, is for the time being a retail shoe store, run by Ben L. Eppstein and selling, he says, 2,000,000 pairs of shoes—the largest number ever sold at one sale in the United States.

While band wagons with great placards literally "drum up business" on the streets a cordon of police keep the crowds of buyers in order.

Eppstein is selling shoes from $1 to $7 a pair. He says he is the representative of the Community Shoe Sales Association, and that this association is made up of "manufacturers and jobbers."

Eppstein is so silent on the subject of his associates that lots of folks think he is the owner of the shoes himself. Retailers, he says are sending "spies" to his "store."

He believes the day of lower shoe prices has arrived.

"These shoes cost from $5 to $15 in retail stores," Eppstein claims, "and we're selling them at prices below wholesale. Everybody in the trade knew that shoes were selling too high and they passed the buck to each other. Now, when the show-down has come, the consumer is reaping the reward."

Facing Deadlock in N. Y. Rep. Convention

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 28.—Delegates to the unofficial Republican state convention faced today the possibility of a deadlock over the designation of a gubernatorial nominee. The boom for Nathan L. Miller of Onondaga, former judge of the court of appeals, who had been picked by a group of "old guard" leaders, apparently had shrunk greatly.

Opposition to making any designations at all for the state officers has been growing, particularly in the New York county delegation.

Colonel William Hayward, permanent chairman denounced the Democratic administration of Governor Alfred E. Smith, as marked by "quackery, opportunism and lack of vision."

Added 50% To Tire Mileage

A Boston tire dealer, for three years, has gathered data on Miller Tires. And he reports as follows:

Users find their tire mileage increased from 50 per cent to 75 per cent.

Blow-outs have been eliminated.

Uniform mileage has been accomplished.

Only six tires in 1,000 come back for adjustment—only five Miller Cords in a year.

A Louisville dealer compared wear and mileage on 116 styles of tires which he repaired. The constant Miller supremacy has caused him now to handle the Miller Tires only.

A California stage line made million-mile comparisons with 21 leading makes. And the Miller won by long odds.

You owe yourself a comparison on your own car. The Miller is the tire of the day.

Harrington, Me.—"I suffered with backache, pains through my hips and such a bearing-down feeling that I could not stand on my feet. I also had other distressing symptoms. Belgians Think U. S. Rifle Best; Use It in Olympic Contests

Antwerp, July 28.—The marksman- ship title of the world is at stake in the Olympic target shooting events beginning today at the Belgian army range at Camp Beverloo, about 30 miles from Antwerp.

The best army and civilian trapshooters with army rifles, pistols and carbines, drawn from all corners of the earth are competing with their chosen weapons. One unusual feature of this target shooting is that the American rifle is represented by two teams—the American and Belgian. The latter decided that the United States arm was the best in the world and secured permission from the war department at Washington to use it.

American trapshooters today received their Olympic medals for their recent victory.

RHEUMATISM Leaves You Forever

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if two bottles of Allenru—the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed Public Drug & Book Co., to guarantee it in every instance.
